Registration

All players must pre-register for the event by going through the Amateur Disc Golf website at www.AmateurDiscGolf.org. There is a button on the homepage titled "Player Registration." This will lead players to the DGU event sign up page. All players must create an account in order to register and redeem potential prize awards. Registration can be open as long as the event director chooses prior to the start of the throwing clinic.

All of the players who pre-register before or on the Sunday prior to the tournament will receive a free disc. Players will be able to choose from a variety of molds and weights. The discs will be distributed to players' before the throwing clinic.

Throwing Technique Clinic

Event directors will lead a throwing technique clinic focusing on a particular feature of the sport such as putting, approach shots or driving. Every clinic will include a discussion about disc selection, grip and various techniques and should run 15 to 30 minutes in length. There is a document titled "Throwing Technique Clinic Format" on the ADG website under the Documents section.

Player's Meeting

The event director will explain the basic rules of the game. An outline of the rules are in the Document section of the ADG website titled "Basic Guidelines for Tournament Play." It is important to go over the very basic rules of the game because there will most likely be a number of novice players and some people playing in their first tournament.

Hole Assignment and Scorecard Distribution

The player's meeting will conclude by players being assigned to their designated starting holes. Directors should use a shotgun start, which should occur 2 minutes after the group furthest from the players' meeting area has reached their hole.

Awards and Acknowledgements

The event director will inform the field of the winners in each division. They are encouraged to let the field know about the next ADG event and to promote other upcoming events in the area.
